

“DOYLE’S DIARY”

Diary of Leo Doyle

November 1882 - January 1900

Edward S. Lilly was a clerk for nine years in Philip Reily's hardware store. This hardware establishment was founded by James I. Reily in 1848. The firm, Edward S. Lilly & Company, had Leo Doyle as the other member, succeeded Philip Reily on Aug. 8, 1880, but on the first of January the partnership was dissolved. (Goodspeed's History of Southeast Missouri - page 776)

James I. Reily's Hardware Store was located at 10-12 South Main Street, Cape Girardeau MO. The ledger bought at a second-hand store on Good Hope Street by Homer B. Hartle, Millersville, MO, in 1965. The ledger contained accounts from November 1882 to January 1900.

Leo Doyle started the diary with the dates, time, temperature, weather and events of the day.

One hundred years ago today (21 Apr. 1969) Louis Houck came to Cape Girardeau. The Missourian began publication of his reminiscences. In chapter IX, quote: "I knew only one person who was a resident of Cape Girardeau before I came to town - Mr. James E. Reilly. I wrote Mr. Reilly before I started that I intended to move to Cape Girardeau to practice law. He met me at the wharf and here introduced me to his particular friend, Leo Doyle, who at that time had a store next to his on Main St."

The Doyle-Gale house perched high on the stone wall along Broadway & Lorimier Street and today the Southeast Missourian building occupies this site.

Doyle's Hat Shop was founded by Mrs. Elvira Harris in 1859 and her niece Mrs. Hiram Doyle continued the millinery business. It was only 100 years old when it closed its doors.

Leo Doyle

(Article from book "Memorial Sketches" by Houck)

"On January 24, 1900 Leo Doyle died. He was the son of Miles Doyle and Sarah Morrison, a sister of Hon. T.J.O. Morrison so long and so favorably known as the representative of the New Madrid District in the State Senate. Miles Doyle was an Irishman by birth, of the noblest type, a man of sterling virtue and integrity. In his youth he had followed the Austins from Missouri to Texas, but afterwards returned and married Miss Morrison, a member of one of the earliest American families, settling in the Spanish Dominions, west of the Mississippi River. In about 1858, with his family, he settled to a farm a little north of Cape Girardeau (a farm his son owned until his death) and there Leo Doyle was born, 14 June 1832. He spent his youth securing such an education as his father's limited means would permit. Between 1850 and 1860 he and his brother Theodore, long since dead, maintained a wood yard to supply the boats plying the river and then altogether dependant on wood as fuel. During the war he removed to Cape Girardeau and with his brother-in-law, Patrick Garathy, entered into the mercantile business, and in this business he was engaged up to the time of his death - surviving his brother-in-law many years. He took a deep interest in everything tending to promote the welfare of our city. For years he acted as Secretary of the old Bloomfield Gravel Road and contributed his stock to make that road the free public road we now have. For over 30 years, and until his death, he was a director of Houck's Missouri & Arkansas Railroad, now constructing its line to this city. He was also a director and assisted in organizing the Perryville Railroad Company. In 1880 when a company was organized to build a railroad from Cape Girardeau to a connection with the Iron Mountain Railroad, Leo Doyle was one of the warmest friends of the enterprise, and one of the few citizens of Cape Girardeau who invested actual cash in the bonds of the road. He became trustee of the bond-holders and as such trustee, when the attempt was made by the Gould interests to sieze the road, manifested his zeal for the interests of the city and devotion to the parties owning the property, by instituting independent legal proceedings and after a protracted and almost un-exampled litigation, finally triumphantly emerged from the contest. For a number of years he was a member of the city council and while in that capacity rendered invaluable service to our people. It should always be remembered that in 1876 he introduced the ordinance for settling and compromising the city railroad debt, and that through his efforts and the efforts of the mayor, Hon. Leon J. Albert, the city was rescued from the bankruptcy into which it had been plunged. He was married twice, and his second wife surviving him, deeply mourns his death. He left no children."
